AKIND HEARTED ACT.

The Carleton Opera Company Aids a Familyin Distress.

There is a vein of philanthropic tenderness in the hearts of the artists in the Carleton Yesterday morning when the company went to the Union Pacrile depot to leave for the west there was a woman and a little girl in the depst among the many who sat waiting for outgoing trains. The poor child had so thing on her shivering frame but a thin calico dress and a shaboy straw hat. The temperature had become very cool and warmly dessed men staked about the depot with overcoats on and laties wore heavy wraps and warm wooden dresses.

But there sat that poor calld with not enough dothing upon her, as Officer Cookput it, to wad a gan with.
The train which carried the Carleton company to Denver was a few moments late, and while the company waited Miss Clara Wisdom, a well known artist of the company, noticed the poor, shivering child sitting by a disconsolate mother. The heart of the actress was touched by the speciacle, and she made inquiry of Officer Cook about the little one. It was soon learned that the mother and child were without means of support, and that the husband of the woman lay in jail upon a charge of drunkemess.

Miss Wisdon at once proposed to the other members of the company that they take up a collection for the benefit of the child, and in five minutes she handed OfficerCookst. to and asked him to go at once and purchase some clothing for the little girl. As the train pulled out the little girlthanked the members of the company for their kindness, and then Office company for their kindness, and then Officer Cook took her up Teath street to a store where he purchased two pairs of hose, two suits of underwear and a dress. The officer then went to A. D. Merse and got a pair of shoes donated, and with the little one well fitted out he took her back to her mother at the depot, a warmer and a happier child. You know what The Omina Bre is.
But you don't know what the Americanized Encyclopasia Britamica is jet. That's what we are going to explain to you.
The original Encyclopasia Britamica is the standard work of reference of the English to standard work of reference of the English is standard work of reference of the English in the standard work of reference of the English is standard work of the English is standard work of th peaking world. Its articles in every depart center science, history and literature repre ment of science, history and literature represent the thoughts and discoveries of the most famous men of all rations. The cost of its preparation was considerably over a million dollars. It is a monumental work, accepted as the authority by all stadents and literary men. It is on the shelves of every public library, and in hundreds of thousands of homes; and for every person who owns it there are probably five others who don't own it, only because it costs so much that they can 'tafford to lay it.

But the Energiopogdia Britannica has de-

But the Encyclopedia Britantica has de-ects. It was compiled in England, for the pecial useof Englishmen, and quite naturally special useof Englishmentand quite naturally therefore it devotes a great deal of space to subjects of interest to Englishmen exclusively, and comparatively little space to many matters about which Americans care a good deal. An English county has more said about it than an American state. An English king gets columns of biography, while an American president has only a few lines of mention. Plymouth, Colchester and Teigumouth are told about exhaustively, while Oshkosh, Kaltold about exhaustively, while Oshkosh, Kalam are and Tacoma are dismissed with a few particulars of location and population. This is all very well for Englishmen, but it someimes makes an American swear-or feel like Austrier trouble is that the plan of the Another trouble is that the pain of the Encyclopadia Britannica excludes biogra-phies of living people. A man has got to die before the Encyclopadia Britannica will take any active of him. And quite a number of persons about whose lives Americans would iketo know something have decided not to lie yet awhile, not even for the sake of being

The most noble the marquis of Doodleton, ford lieutenant of Feashire, or plain Benjamin Harrison, president of the United States. Hunt these up in the original Encyclopedia Britannica and rou will find pages devoted to the English subjects and lines or words to the American. Then turn to the Americanized Encyclopædia Britannica and the whole system is reversed; the matters that interest Americans are treated at full length, while subjects exclusively English about which 909,000 Americans out of every about which 99,000 Americans out of every 1,000,000 care just nothing at all, are proportionately cut down. That's where the 'Amgreanized' comes in. See:

Something new. The Encyclopædia Britannica contains no biographies of living recole the 'plan of the work' excludes that sort of thing. The Americanized edition gives the biography of every noted living and especially of every noted living American down to the present year.

Anything more! Well, yes, the maps. Ninety-six of them, including new maps of all the states in the union.

Any more! Plenty. But this is all we have space to tell about just now. Our representative will call on you to take your order. Perhaps he may not come soon enough to suit you. If so drop us a postal card and helywill call at once.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

How People of Foreign Birth May lecome Citizens of This Country. The statutes made and provided for the naturalization of those who are not but who wish to become citizens of the United States should be thoroughly understood by those seeking to acquire the right to vote. Following are the provisions under which citizenship may be acquired: Title XXX-Naturalization. Section 2165:

An alien may be admitted to become a citizen of the United States in the following manner, and not otherwise:

and not otherwise:

1. He shall declare or oath, before a circuit or district court of the United States, or a district or supreme court of the territories, or a court of record of any of the states having common law jurisdiction, and a seal and clerk, two years, at least, prior to his admission, that it is bona fide his intention to become a citizen of the United States and to reconcer freever all al-United States and to renounce forever all al-legiance and fidelity to any foreign prince.

potentate, state or sovereignty of which the alien may be at the time a citizen or subject.

2. He shall, at the time of his application to be admitted, declare, on eath, before some one of the courts above specified, that he will support the constitution of the United States. and that he absolutely and entirely renounces and abjures all allegiance and fidelity to every foreign prince, potentate, state or sovereignty; and particularly, by name, to the prince, potentate, state or sovereignty of which he was before a citizen or subject; which proceedings shall be recorded by the clerk of the court.

3. It shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the court admitting such allen that he has resided within the United States five he has resided within the United States five years at least, and within the state or territory where such court is at the time held one year at least; and that during that time he has behaved as a man of good moral character, attached to the principles of the constitution of the United States, and well disposed to the good order and happiness of the same, but the oath of the applicant shall in no case he allowed to praye his residence.

be allowed to prove his residence.

Paragraphs four, five and six pertain to the naturalization of honorably discharged soldiers, persons bearing titles or belonging to the nobility of foreign countries. Section 2,167—Any after being under the age of twenty-one years, who has resided in the United States three years next preceding his arriving at that age, and who has continued to reside therein to the time he may make application to be admitted a citizen thereof, may, after he arrives at the age of twenty-one years, and after he has resided five years within the United States, including the three years of his minority, be admitted a citizen of the United States, without having made the declaration required in the first condition of section 2.105; but such alien shall make the declara-tion required therein at the time of his ad-mission; and shall further declare, on oath, and prove to the satisfaction of the court that for two years next preceding it has been his bona fide intention to become a citizen of the United States; and he shall in all other respects comply with the laws in regard to Cures that Don't Always Cure.

Professor Buchanan, in a learned trea ise on consumption, says the only absolute cure for consumption is water and plenty of it, says the Illustrated' Ameri can. This does seem strange, as it is no as unusual thing to hear of a prohibitionist dying of consumption. It is only a few months ago that the newspaper were talking a great deal of a man down east who lived till he was one hundred and five, and the day before his death he helped to mow the grassin a five-acre lot. "He had never drank a drop of liquor in his life." This was a great eye-opeser for the anti-liquor brigade until a man recently died at the age of one hundred and thirteen who had been an inveterate smoker and heavy liquor-drinker from his early The fact is, there is no rule livelihood that applies to everybody equally.
